

Take part in the City Nature Challenge!

Where: Blue Bee Cider | When: Tuesday, May 1, 6 – 8 p.m.

1320 Summit Ave, Richmond, VA 23230

You're invited to join staff from The Nature Conservancy and biologists from the Virginia Department of Natural Resources Division of Natural Heritage at Blue Bee Cider for a post-challenge identification party!

From April 27 – 30, citizen scientists across Richmond will be making observations and uploading them to the iNaturalist app. The more observations that can be identified at the species level, the more species we get in our challenge tally! It also provides valuable data for scientists, land managers, non-profits, and governments about the areas that they help to protect.

Discover and document the biodiversity of our urban spaces!

Last year ...

More than 4,000 people participated

Over 125,000 observations were made

8,600 species were found

392 rare / endangered / threatened species documented!

CITY NATURE CHALLENGE IS ORGANIZED BY

Learn more at iNaturalist.org/projects/city-nature-challenge-2018-richmond